

Auckland Trip

On the 10th of March Jane, Grant and I along with June, Moira and Rachel as caregivers went on a small trip up to Auckland to attend the Cerebral Palsy 60th Anniversary. At this event they talked about their history as a society and what programmes they currently offer people with Cerebral palsy. I have to say the food and drink was yum.

Attending this event allowed me to catch up with a couple of old school mates. We stayed at the Auckland International Youth Hostel which meant we were in the center of town, which meant we could walk down to Aotea Square where they had a festival. As part of the festival we went to the Vietnamese Puppets on Water. Grant and Moira visited an ex resident and the rest of us went up to the sky tower along with one of Jane's friends. One day we took the ferry over to Davenport so Jane could go and see her friend Kim. Another day we walk to the Viaduct where the Team New Zealand boat is based. When we arrived a person was teaching people to sail and then the people went out on the Team New Zealand boat. I wanted to have a go, but I forgot I had a disability!

A huge thanks to Moira, June and Rachel for their hard work and making it possible.
